Recruiting a doctor

Companies are increasingly seeking to take on doctoral students and doctors, regardless of their speciality. Creativity, sense of innovation, rigour, autonomy, capacity to solve complex problems ... these young researchers have specific skills allowing them to meet the essential needs formulated by companies and to pursue a brilliant career in the private sector.

Directly operational, in particular thanks to their training related to the socio-economic environment, doctors at Université Grenoble Alpes can be recruited as soon as they obtain their doctoral degree, particularly in the following sectors:

- research and development,
- innovation, scientific expertise and technology watch,
- project or programme management,
- audit and consultancy,
- activity valorisation.
